No business man, professional man or manufacturer should lack a newspaper published in his town to get without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns, says an exchange. This applies to all kinds of business—general stores, dry goods, groceries, furniture dealers, manufacturing establishments, auto mobile dealers, mechanics, professional men and in fact all kinds of business. This does not mean that you should have a whole or half page or even a quarter of a page ad, in every issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned, if you do not want to be a two-line space. A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell just what business is presented in a town by looking at the business mentioned in the paper. The life of any town depends upon the live, wide awake and liberal advertising business men.

The greatest medium of this art, butting it through the local paper. But without the support of the locality in which it is published no newspaper can afford to stand on its own, and give the town all the publicity it should have. Now Claresholm has had a fair example of what we mean in the last couple of months. And we respectfully ask without begging every merchant to make every reader to give us their loyal support and we promise them a paper that will be out every week, as near as possible on time, and one that will reach every one of its subscribers, as well as being a paper well worth reading and well deserving of the support of any community.

FARMERS HIRING MANY MEN

Recently the city council of Brandon Manitoba, decided to place an advertisement in local papers asking farmers of the district to be required help to communicate with the city authorities. From the day following publication of the advertisement there have been enquiries almost by the dozen. Applicants all state that there is still plenty of work for farm men and their wives on farms. Farmers are preparing for a larger crop area than ever before, and during the coming season agricultural labor promises to be particularly in demand.

FREE PAMPHLET

"Swine Husbandry in Canada" is the title of Bulletin No. 17 of the Live Stock Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. This publication describes the bacon hog and discusses his breeding and raising. The levels of swine raised in Canada are described and a history of each is given. An interesting section is devoted to the production of pork on Canadian farms. The information was evidently secured from practical farmers in numerous districts and in sections where hogs are raised without duty by products.

The bulletin concludes with articles on hog cholera and tuberculosis, written by the Veterinary Director General and the Chief Meat Inspector, respectively. This bulletin is generously illustrated and printed in a series known ink. Copies are available to those who apply for them to the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

At the dance which was given at this, Croft's last Friday evening, an excellent time was spent. This was the second affair of this kind that has been enjoyed there since this season.

On February the eighth, about twenty-five of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Butts gathered at their home and gave Mr. Butts a very pleasant surprise, the occasion being his fiftieth birthday. A delicious lunch was served at midnight, and again at five o'clock in the morning the guests were served to a very tasty lunch. Everyone then expressed their wish that Mr. Butts should have many more such happy birthdays after which they dispersed feeling that they had had a most enjoyable time.

Yes, There Is MONEY IN EGGS

Have you ever stopped to think that a hen will lay 150 eggs a year. Certified statistics tell us that it costs 15c a dozen to produce eggs. People in the business say that fresh eggs average 45c a dozen. This leaves a net profit of 30c a dozen. 30c net on 150 eggs is $4.50, which you should make net profit on each hen. If you had 1000 hens it would be $4,500 you should make net profit. If you are earning more than this amount per year, cause to my office and let us talk the matter over. You can buy a model farm for $150 cash, the balance spread over a term of years. Model farms are all cleared on stumps or stones to extend with. They are situated on the main line of the Canadian Northern Railroad, are connected with the city of Kamloops by a good automobile road; the Hydro Electric Line of the city of Kamloops passes through the property which will supply light and power. Model farms are situated right on the bank of the North Thompson river, which supplies ample water for irrigation. Model farms are cleared farms. The price is only $150 on acre or $750 for five acres. $150 cash and balance spread over five years.

Fill out the coupon below and mail it to me at once, and I will send you further particulars.

REMARKABLE INSECTS.

Faculty of Smell is the Most Highly Developed.

The most valuable faculty possessed by insects is their sense of smell. Most insects have very poor eyesight, and in particular are absolutely blind. With all their batteries of eyes bulging in every direction these creatures do not seem to enjoy very good eyesight. Some of the flying insects cannot see well enough to avoid obstacles which to them should look as big as a barn.

In fact when it comes to the sense of smell the insect world is far ahead of any animal. Pheasants, the great forest entomologist, confesses that female butterflies in a steel cage far from the natural haunts of the insects. To his surprise males of the species came from miles away and lit on the screen.

He then confined the females in hermetically-sealed jars and placed them near places frequented by the males. Not one paid any attention, though the females were visible through the glass.

To make sure that the sense of smell was the guiding force, Prof. Pheasants brought out fine blue and white twigs on which the females had rested. Males soon appeared, and the faintest of the twigs and glass jars, circled about the twigs and

If a strange ant of the same species is placed in an ant-hill in a violent quarrel, every insect he meets recognizes him instantly as an intruder and helps in the election.

If a small mouse dies in a field covered with insects known as aphids and necrophores will journey from distances of more than a mile to lay eggs in the body.

The house-fly acts solely on the sense of smell in his life. He is perpetually trying to head in the direction of each breath of food odor he smells, and "odors" and "locates" with each eddy of air until he locates the source of the smell.

Noctuides find you in the dark more easily than you do them. They smell their victims outside the house. Their sense of smell leads them to windows, doors, or chimneys, in they go, and soon you hear their song about your ears.

A Bed of Bayonets. A most remarkable feat was performed before the rajah of Manipur by a Chinaman, one of the company of acrobats, who reclined at full length upon the points of seven bayonets fixed in the orthodox manner in many muskets. Four of the performer's assistants stood on top of his head, and the rajah stood on his bed of spikes, where he carefully disarmed himself of all pointed points did not pierce his flesh.

The Plumed one. On one point, his shoulder blades on two points, his back on two points, and the hollows behind his knees engaged the remaining two. The acrobat declared after it was over that he had felt as comfortable as if lying on a bed.

The Dogs of Turkey.

In the matter of kindness to animals it is said that the Turk cannot be surpassed. That at Istanbul the wandering dogs are treated with great gentleness, and when puppies come into the world they are looked after by their mother at the side of the street in improvised kennels made out of old boxes lined with straw and bits of carpet. A dog frequently used to come to the nearest baker's shop and buy a quantity of bread, which he distributes among the dogs of the quarter, who testify their gratitude by jumping up at him with noisy paws and snoring muzzles.

Hamlet in South Africa.

It can hardly be expected that "post impressions" will be confined to pictures in the future. A friend of mine writes from South Africa that some genius out there has written a Hamlet in the "Tatler" quotes the following example, which seems to me extremely post impressionistic. Here it is:
Hamlet—Woe is it?
Othello—It is an ape.
Hamlet—Woe is it?
Othello—It is a papa's spoon.

Cold Feet.

During a marriage ceremony in Scotland recently the bridegroom looked extremely wretched, and he got to fidgeting, standing first on one foot and then on the other, that the "best man" decided he would find out what the trouble was.

"What's up, Jack?" he whispered.
"I've lost the ring."
"No," answered the unhappy one, with a woful look, the ring's safe enough, but, I am, I've lost my enthusiasm."

A Comparison. "Why is a clock like a pretty and vain young lady?"
"She fails to see any resemblance."

"Because it is all face and gaud, but no head to speak of, is hard to stop when once it is wound up and has a striking way of calling attention to itself every hour of the day."
—London Tit-Bits.

To Ferment.

"You know Elsie, that ferment means 'to work,'" said the teacher. "Now you may write a sentence on the blackboard containing the word 'ferment.'"

After a moment's thought Elsie wrote as follows: "In summer I love to ferment among the flowers in our garden."

Caught Her.

"I beg your pardon, m'am, for calling you to the door."

"What's the trouble?"
"Why, the lady next door told me you would buy a jar of our beautiful cream because you needed it, but I see you don't. Good day, m'am."

"Wait one moment, please. I'll take one away."

GOING HALVES.

he Gladly. Mac Made sure the Division Was Perfectly Equal.

"I once had a neighbor," said the old man, "the oldest specimen of humanity I ever met. He was a very old man—black as old times and as white as a new one. I certainly found him very old, but I was easy to get along with. He was a very old man—black as old times and as white as a new one. I certainly found him very old, but I was easy to get along with."

In the spring of my seventh year the neighborhood blank moved and tried to sell me his share in the ladder. He wanted $2.50, which I thought excessive. For six years the ladder had been in my hands, and I was showing signs of wear and tear. I offered to pay him $1.00 or to take that sum for my own interest; but no, he would have no use for a ladder in the flat in which he was moving, and I must buy it at his price. I said, "I won't buy it." He grew angry, and the matter rested.

"The Blanks were to leave the 1st of May. I had some business, and I had to go away on business, my father and I went to the city and shut up the house for a week. When we returned the Blanks were gone and I found in our letter box a card note from him:

"Well, a thirty foot ladder is a little cumbersome, and although a fifteen foot ladder is a little better, I thought you would like to have it. I have divided it into two halves, and I have sent you one half and left you the other."

INDUSTRIAL WORKERS CHIEF SUFFERERS

Shortness of Money Curtails Factory Employment—How to Reduce the Force of This Menace

While forming the basis of Canada's wealth, the factories of Canada are the direct source of revenue for a large number of our population. From Sydney to Victoria, from Prince Albert to Toronto, Canada is dotted with factories, and around each factory is a little community of workers; the factory hands, the storekeepers, who sell them their supplies, the doctors who tend them when they are ill, the street carmen that carry them to and from their work, the railways that depend upon them for a large part of their traffic, and the other midia which manufacture various kinds of goods—books, shoes, clothing, and so on—to supply these workmen.

Shortness of Money. When money is high, prices for Canadian armor, in whose good fortune all must rejoice, for his property is our prosperity. But what the nation may gain by the higher prices paid for Canadian wheat, it may more than lose by the closing of Canadian factories. The farmer need never worry about the possibility of unemployment; there is always demand for what he produces. But the plant of unemployment faces the plant of the factory. When the wheat market is glutted, the factory workers are laid off.

MAINTAINING OUR PRODUCTIVE POWER

The Dominion's Prosperity Depends Upon Ourselves—War and Industry

The war in Europe may result one way or another but in Canada, unless the Canadian people make a special effort to safeguard the interests of the nation, it is bound to have a most serious effect. The boundary lines of Europe may or may not be altered, the war may last for many months or even for years, it may ruin some of the belligerents and bring fortune to others; but for Canada it is likely to mean a serious economic setback unless the Canadian people as a whole cooperate to fend off the evil effect of the war. Two things must be borne in mind by every Canadian man and woman, from the humblest to the most wealthy; first, to preserve the spirit of initiative and enterprise in all the conduct of our affairs in a manner as nearly normal as possible; and secondly, to preserve their own resources. This need not be done in the spirit of helping Canadian manufacturers; keeping Canadian money in circulation in Canada is a most valuable act of national self-preservation. It is necessary for the good of the whole nation.

Signs of Primitive Race

Scientist Thinks South Africa Once Inhabited by People Unknown in Historical Annals

A most interesting discovery has lately been made showing the existence of a primitive race of men in South Africa, says the London Globe. Dr. Broome of Johannesburg, who is an expert in the study of primitive races, has made his name familiar to scientists in Europe and America, and he is a specially interesting discovery north of Johannesburg. In the course of operations connected with the opening of the spring, he found it was necessary to tunnel into a hill and in the course of operations the remains came upon a large quantity of unworked bones associated with iron implements and a quantity of animal bones.

The significance of the discovery was not realized by the discoverer until he had examined the bones, but fortunately a Dutch woman in the district, seeing that they were of human origin, and prevented the bones from being destroyed. Dr. Broome then dug down and examined them. He found that the bones were chiefly those of a large, muscular, and dark-skinned race, and that they were of a type which is not known elsewhere. The bones were found in a cave, and the cave was found to be of a type which is not known elsewhere.

Previous discoveries have led scientists to believe that man had lived in South Africa since the dawn of time, and that the bones found in the cave were of a type which is not known elsewhere. The bones were found in a cave, and the cave was found to be of a type which is not known elsewhere.

At present there is some doubt as to the race to which the human beings who hunted these giant animals belonged. In this connection it has been noted that the bones of an extinct buffalo and horse have been discovered in South Africa have been found in Algeria. It is thought, therefore, that the human beings who hunted these animals were of a type which is not known elsewhere.

Mr. Broome's latest discovery is a most interesting one. He has found the bones of a large, muscular, and dark-skinned race, and that they were of a type which is not known elsewhere. The bones were found in a cave, and the cave was found to be of a type which is not known elsewhere.

To Suit All Tastes

A Boston merchant tells of an old story who was about to be married. "One day," says the story, "I stopped before his shop and looked through at a long table covered with apples, some marked with an 'A', some with a 'B'.

"What is the meaning of these markings?" I asked. The merchant told me that the apples were of two kinds, the 'A' and the 'B'.

"They are the same kind, son," said the old gentleman, "but some customers want a barrel of the 'A' and some of the 'B'."

Canada's Imports of Eggs

Canada, an agricultural country, continues to import eggs in large quantities. During 1914, the total value of imports was $1,121,109, down from $1,121,109 in 1913. The increase in imports has been steady, showing that production in this country is constantly falling behind demand. It is a place to be more poultry in Canada.

Work of "Digging In" Has Been Completed

The army of German spies, early in September, began to "dig in" in the trenches. The general consideration of work was done. Some volunteers who provided their own digging tools, and others who were supplied by the army. Thousands of Belgian soldiers were killed in the trenches. MRS. HOUSEKEEPER

Christmas time you have a little extra money. Why not make the home present of an Eddy Washboard and an Eddy Indurated Fibre Tub?

You will feel the benefit every washday in the year, for the Indurated Tub keeps the water hot for so long that it saves much lifting and carrying of water—and the washboard has no special cleaning clothes, lessens the dirt very easily.

Buy your home a Xmas present, Mrs. Housekeeper, but be sure they are EDDY'S.

BRITISH NORTH SEA FLEETS GUARDING THE DANGER ZONE

PRACTICES FORMATIONS AND WAITS FOR ENEMY

An Officer on Duty in the North Sea, whose Cruiser has Steamed 17,000 Miles since the War Began, Tells of the Activity

Among the Vessels of the Fleet

The Morning Post publishes the following from an officer on board one of the British protected cruisers in the Grand Fleet:

I suppose you would know a little of how we are getting on and what we are doing. Of course, I can't tell you any details, but it is the time, light a little, and what we are doing. I suppose you would know a little of how we are getting on and what we are doing. Of course, I can't tell you any details, but it is the time, light a little, and what we are doing. I suppose you would know a little of how we are getting on and what we are doing. Of course, I can't tell you any details, but it is the time, light a little, and what we are doing.

We are adding to our efficiency every day. We take every opportunity of practice, gunnery, torpedo, etc., and also take drills, accounting every one to his exact duties. Our ships know exactly what our commander is doing. Constant practice under varying conditions of weather, light and position, have enabled every captain to know exactly and minutely the capabilities of his ship, which we might find ourselves, don't think that is something. The enemy, if they are asked, "What is the navy doing?" all they have to tell is that they are waiting for the enemy. They are waiting for the enemy. They are waiting for the enemy. They are waiting for the enemy. They are waiting for the enemy.

BRITAIN AS GERMANY'S VASSAL, IS THE TITLE

Remarkable for the Author's Spirit of Prophecy in Dealing with the German Ambition and Determination to Rule the World, no Matter How the End is Attained

Under the illuminating title of "The German Problem," the latest work of General Friedrich von Bernhardi, who has written many books, promises two years ago by his now well known work, "Germany and the Next War," has been translated into English and has just reached this country.

Which the volume contains is a most interesting and accurate account of what has actually happened. After a careful perusal of the work it is impossible to escape the conclusion that Germany has never heard either knew the military progress of his country and looked for a strong advocacy of it in his public writings to push it to speedy consummation, or has been gifted with reason.

The translation of this work of von Bernhardi has been done by a well known writer, who has been a factor in the development of culture in Germany. Letting the Light in Though

THE REVIEW

Shops and businesses that are illuminated by advertising have a vitality and efficiency not possessed by shops and businesses that drape their service and activities with a pall of silence.

Everybody knows that it is in all ways good to let much light into dwellings, factories, shops and stables---into all places where life is--and where health and efficiency are desired.

We commend to the merchants of this community the advantages and good results of persistent advertising in our columns, for the public always goes where light is--the public shuns dark places. Light means welcome and confidence.

Advertising will go far towards retaining the loyalty of old customers and winning new ones. Fifty-two advertisements in our columns will prove an excellent salesman--one of these yearly, will cost you be less than what you are now paying to some salesman behind your counter.

Habits.
Imagine Hercules as carried in a rotten boat; what can he do there but by the very force of his stroke expedite the ruin of his craft? Take care, then, of the timbers of your boat and avoid all practices likely to introduce either wet or dry rot among them. And this is not to be accomplished by desultory or intermittent efforts of the will, but by the formation of habits. The will, no doubt, has sometimes to put forth its strength in order to strangle or crush the special temptation. But the formation of right habits is essential to your permanent security. They diminish your chance of falling when assailed and they augment your chance of recovery when overthrown.—John Tyndall.

Road Sightseeing.
Europeans are wont to talk of Americans who rush through Europe with a guidebook in one hand and a railroad timetable in the other, but so Englishman overboard on a Fifth Avenue bus the other day was in a class by himself for speed.

"I've been up to the Metropolitan museum," he volunteered to a seatmate. "Really fine place, but big. Took me an hour to see everything in it."—New York Tribune.

Cautels.
He had refused to buy her a new dress, yet she made no complaint. "You don't call me a brats any more," he said indignantly. "No," she replied, "the brutes have been muzzled too much already."—Boston Transcript.

Placing the Blame.
Wife—Everything you have you owe to me. Husband—That's what I say. Mr. Jones says. Wife—Who's Mr. Jones? Husband—The stomach and nerve specialist.—Birmingham Mail.

Overstrenuous the not to being strong, put in the right using of strength.—Merry Ward Beecher.
